Committee on _____

A BILL

To permit employees to request changes to their work schedules without fear of retaliation and to ensure that employers consider these requests, and to require employers to provide more predictable and stable schedules for employees in certain occupations with evidence of unpredictable and unstable scheduling practices that negatively affect employees, and for other purposes.

1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representa-
2 tives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

1 SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE; FINDINGS.

2 (a) SHORT TITLE.—This Act may be cited as the 3 “Schedules That Work Act”.

4 (b) FINDINGS.—Congress finds the following:

5 (1) The vast majority of the United States
6 workforce today is juggling responsibilities at home 7 and at work. Women are primary breadwinners or 8 co-breadwinners in $\frac{2}{3}$ of families with children in 9 the United States.

10 (2) Despite the dual responsibilities of today’s 11 workforce, many workers have little notice of their 12 work schedules and lack the ability to make changes 13 to the work hours in such schedules, which under-14 mines their ability to accommodate family respon-15 sibilities.

16 (3)(A) Mothers working in low-paid jobs are 17 more likely to be the primary or sole breadwinner for 18 their families than mothers working in higher-paid
19 jobs. For example, nearly 7 in 10 mothers in the $\frac{1}{5}$
20 of households in the United States with the lowest 21 incomes bring home all or most of their families’ in-22 come, compared to less than $\frac{1}{3}$ of their counterparts 23 in the highest-income quintile.

24 (B) At the same time, low-paid workers often 25 have the least control over their work hours and face 26 the most unpredictable schedules. In some indus-

1 tries, “just-in-time” scheduling practices, which base 2 workers’ schedules on perceived consumer demand to 3 minimize labor costs, are particularly common. Em-
4 ployers using these practices often post work sched-
5 ules with little notice, vary work hours widely from 6 week to week, cancel shifts at the last minute, and 7 schedule employees for “on call” shifts (requiring an 8 employee to call in to work to find out whether the 9 employee will have to work later that day) or 10 “clopening” shifts (requiring an employee to work a 11 closing shift at night followed by an opening shift a 12 few hours later). For example, national survey data 13 show that—

14 (i) about $\frac{2}{3}$ of hourly retail and food serv-15 ice workers receive their work schedules with 16 less than 2 weeks’ advance notice and about $\frac{1}{3}$
17 receive their schedule with less than 1 week’s 18 notice;

19 (ii) more than 1 in 5 hourly retail and food 20 service workers have been scheduled for on-call 21 shifts, and more than 1 in 3 have worked 22 “clopening” shifts; and

23 (iii) 65 percent of hourly retail and food 24 service workers would like a more stable and 25 predictable schedule.

1 (4) Unfair work scheduling practices make it 2 difficult for low-paid workers to—

3 (A) provide necessary care for children and 4 other family members, including securing and 5 maintaining stable child care;

6 (B) access and receive needed care for the 7 workers’ own serious health conditions;

8 (C) pursue workforce training;

9 (D) get or keep a second job, which many 10 workers need to make ends meet;

11 (E) plan for and access transportation to 12 reach worksites; and

13 (F) qualify for and maintain eligibility for 14 needed public benefits and work supports, such 15 as child care subsidies and benefits under the 16 supplemental nutrition assistance program, due 17 to fluctuations in income and work hours.

18 (5) Unstable work schedules pre-date the pan-
19 demic and economic recession caused by COVID–19, 20 but the harm of these workplace practices is exacer-
21 bated as millions of workers risk their own health 22 and safety at jobs with few protections, volatile 23 schedules, and inadequate hours, in an effort to sup-24 port themselves and their families. Employers have 25 continued to use “just-in-time” scheduling practices

1 throughout the pandemic, even as workers face addi-
2 tional caregiving challenges due to school and child 3 care closures and quarantines.

4 (6) A growing body of research demonstrates 5 that unstable and unpredictable work schedules have 6 significant detrimental impacts on sleep quality, 7 mental health, and happiness, and are associated 8 with unstable child care arrangements and negative 9 health and behavioral outcomes for children. And 10 impacts are likely to be the most severe for workers 11 of color and their families, as workers of color are 12 more likely than their White counterparts—even 13 compared to White coworkers at the same com-
14 pany—to experience unstable work schedules. Unsta-15 ble and unpredictable work schedules—and the 16 work-family conflict they produce—are also associ-17 ated with higher rates of turnover, which creates 18 further instability for employers and workers. Some 19 examples of the detrimental impacts of unstable and 20 unpredictable work schedules are as follows:

21 (A) Unstable work schedules lead to more
22 household economic strain and time conflicts 23 and undermine the well-being of parents, all of 24 which can negatively impact children's health 25 and behavior.

1 (B) Workers with the most severe insta-
2 bility in their work schedules also face the high-3 est risk of negative behavior and health out-4 comes for their children.

5 (C) The exposure of a parent to on-call 6 shifts and last-minute shift changes are associ-7 ated with more unstable child care arrange-8 ments and with the use of siblings to provide 9 care.

10 (D) Work schedule instability causes more
11 work-family conflict, which increases the chance 12 that a worker will be forced to leave his or her 13 job, which is associated with downward mobility 14 of the earnings of the worker.

15 (E)(i) Relative to White workers, workers 16 of color are more likely to—

17 (I) have cancelled shifts;

18 (II) have on-call shifts;

19 (III) be involuntary part-time work-
20 ers;

21 (IV) have trouble getting time off;

22 and

23 (V) work “clopening” shifts, as de-
24 scribed in paragraph (3)(B).

1 (ii) The statistics described in clause (i) re-
2 main true after controlling for demographics,
3 human capital, worker power, firm segregation, 4 and discordance with the race or ethnicity of 5 the worker and the manager. Race gaps in job 6 quality are greater for women of color.

7 (F) Workers who receive shorter advanced 8 notice, who work on-call shifts, who experience
9 last-minute shift cancellation and timing 10 changes, or with more volatile work hours are 11 more likely to experience hunger, residential 12 hardships, and more overall economic hardship.

13 (7) Unpredictable and unstable work schedules 14 are common in a wide range of occupations, with 15 evidence of particular concentration in food service, 16 retail, cleaning, hospitality, and warehouse occupa-17 tions. These occupations are critically important to 18 the United States economy.

19 (8) Employers that have implemented fair work 20 scheduling policies that allow workers to have more 21 control over their work schedules, and provide more 22 predictable and stable schedules, have experienced 23 significant benefits, including reductions in absentee-
24 ism and workforce turnover, and increased worker
25 morale and engagement. For example, when Gap

1 Inc. piloted strategies to make work schedules more
2 stable and predictable for employees, the Gap Inc.
3 stores that implemented these strategies experienced 4 higher productivity and a 7 percent increase in sales,
5 compared to those Gap Inc. stores that did not im-
6 plement these strategies.

7 (9) This Act is a first step in responding to the 8 needs of workers for a voice in the timing of their 9 work hours and for more predictable schedules.

23 pay under paragraph (1), or to obtain written con-

6 by the employer.

7 (B) A schedule change is the result of a
8 mutually agreed upon shift trade or coverage

13 included in the employee’s regular paycheck. The employer
14 shall identify, in the corresponding written wage statement 15 or pay stub, the total number of hours of additional pay
